

Paul Edmonds, Management Consultant High Technology manufacturing competitiveness.

Paul was the Vice President of Operations at National Semiconductor and the Operations Manager at Fairchild Semiconductor until his retirement in 2010. He is an experienced semiconductor professional with 39 years of Wafer Fab engineering, operations management, Greenfield Construction, and technology transfers. His specialties are Wafer Fab turnarounds to improve cost performance, project management, Wafer Fab construction and start-up and benchmarking.

His board experience and affiliations include: Certified Instructor Total Production Management (JIPM Board Certified), Certification in Project Management, Classified Secret clearance for U.S Government, USM College of Science, Technology, and Health Board member and past chair, Score Mentor Portland Chapter, Manufacturers Association of Maine

Paul's education includes: Applied Science Forestry, BS in Business Management, MBA in Engineering Management, Global Management accelerated MBA from Stanford.